fortune so nobly defended, the presence of our war vessels obliged as to depart every day from the system of nentrality which I had proclaimed, and gave rise to erroneous interpretations; but you know that in policy, one hardly believes in the possibility of a pure, disinterested step. Such is a rapid exposition of the general situation. Let any apprehension, therefore, be dissipated, and let confidence be redstablished. Why should not commercial and indestrial affairs assume a new development? My firm resolution is not to enter into any conflict in which the cause of France should not be based on right and justice. What, then, have we to fear? Can a united and compact ustion, numbering 40,000,000 souls, fear to be drawn into struggles the aim of which she could not approve, or be provoked by any menace whatever? The first virtue of a people is to have confidence in itself, and not allow itself to be disturbed by imaginary alarma. Let us then calmly regard the future in the full conacionances of our strength, as well as in our honorable institutions—let us engage, without exaggerated preoccupations, in the development of the germs of the prosperity that Providence places in our hands."

The French Chambers were opened on the 4th by the Emperor in person. The Emperor commenced his speech by explaining the measures of reform which had been accorded to the Chambers, and in the course of his remarks he said:

You will also be able in an address to manifest your sentiments on the fact which are being accomplished—ho longer, as for partly by a simple paraphrase of the speech from the throughout the next adverted to the industrial and commercial affairs of the country, and to the economic reforms accomplished by the creaty with England and by projected treaties with other countries. He said that not withstanding the great reduction in duties, the Budget proceeds a balance, without any addition to the imposition of the public credit.

On foreign affairs, he spoke as follows:

"As regards the exterior, I have endeavored to prove, in my relations with foreign powers, that France sincerely desires peace, and that, without renouncing a legitimate influence, she does not pretend to interfere in any place where her interests are not concerned; and, finally, that if she sympathizes with all that is great and noble, she does not heitate to condemn everything which violates international right and justice. Events, difficult to be foreseen, have combined in Italy to complicate a state of things already embarrassed. My Government, agreeing with its allies, has considered that the best means of obviating the greatest dangers was to have recourse to the principle non-intervention, which leave each country master of its destiny, localizes questions, and prevents them from degenerating into European conflicts. The semi-official Berlingski Tideade, in papiliting his speech, makes the following remarks:

"Should German troops enter Holstein without being called upon to do so by our Sovereign, and contrary to his wish, a violation of territory would then take place, and the Federal Diet would, in fact, have to declare war against Denmark. War at the present moment would be inconvenient for Germany, and is consequently convenient for Deumark. A state of armed peace exhausts the strength of the country and weakean popular enthusiasm, without which a small people cannot make war. By a blockade we can now damage the commerce of Germany and rout the Freesian ports for a long period. The conflict must therefore now terminate either by war or by negotiation."

degenerating into European conflicts. I certainly am not ignorant that this system possesses the inconvenience of appearing to authorize many grievous excesses. Extreme views would prefer another course; some that France should participate in and make common classe in every revolution; others that France should place herself at the head of general reaction. I will not allow myself to be diverted from my path by these opposite inducements. It is sufficient for the greatness of the country that its rights be maintained in the quarters in which they are incontestable—to defend its bonor wherever it may be attacked, and to afford her support where it is supplicated by a just cause. It is thus that we have maintained our rights in causing the recognition of the cession of Savoy and Nice. These provinces are now irrevocably united to France. It is thus that to avenge our honor in the extreme East, our flag, united with that of Great Britain, floats victoriously over the the walls of Pekin, and that the cross, the emblem of Christian civilization, again surmounts in the Capital of China the temples of our religion, which have been closed for more than a century. It is thus that in the name of humanity our troops have gone to Syria, in virtue of a European Convention in order to protect the Christian against a blind fanaticism. At Rome, I have considered it necessary to increase the gravison, when the security of the Holy Father appeared to be threatened. I have sent my ficet to the last refuge of the King of Naples. After having allowed it to remain there four months, I withdrew it. However worthy of sympathy might be a royal misfortune so nobly defended, the presence of our war vossels obliged us to depart every day from the system of neutrality which I had proclaimed, and gave rise to erroneous interpretations; but you know that in policy, one hardly believes in the possibility of a pure, disinterested step. THE QUEEN'S SPECIR.

LONDON, Tuesday afternoon.

My LONDS AND GENTLEMEN: It is with great satisfaction that I again meet you in Parhament, and have reconrse to your assistance and advice. My relations with foreign powers continue to be friendly and satisfactory, and I trust that the moderation of the powers of Errope will prevent any interruption of the general nears.

This is an action, the decision in which will determine the construction to be placed upon the Act of 1898, relative to the acknowledgment of assignments:

Hiltron J.—The plaintiff claims, as assignee of Cornell and Conly, to be interested in certain property in the possession or order the control of the defendants, and in respect to which he asks for an injunction and receiver. The assignment to him bears due December 21, 1969, and purports to have been executed by Cornell and Couly for the benefit of their joint and individual creditors; but because from the certificate of the Commissioner of Deeds indorsed upon it, it appears that Cornell slone has acknowledged executing it; and its execution by Conly has only been proved by a subscribing witness. The decembants contend that its delivery in this condition was in violation of the "acts to secure to creditors a first division of the extance of debots who convey to assignees for the benefit of creditors," passed April 13, 1800 (see law p. 594.); and therefore the plaintiff has acquired no right or interest in the property, which is the subject of the action. of Errope will prevent any interruption of the general peace.

Events of great importance are taking place in Italy. Believing that the Italians ought to be left to settle their own affairs, I have not thought it right to exercise may active interference in those matters. A paper on the subject will be laid before you. I announced to you at the close of the ression of Parliament that the arcotites which had then recently been committed in Syria had induced me to concur with the Emperor of Austria, the Emperor of the French, the Prince Regent of Prussia, and the Emperor of Russia, in entering into an engagement with the Sultan, by which temporary assistance was to be afforded to the Sultan for the purpose of earablishing peace in that part of for the purpose of establishing peace in that part of his dominions.

1800, (see law p. 504.), and therefore the plaintiff has acquired noright or interest in the property, which is the subject of the action.

By the first section of this act it is declared that every such assignment thereafter made shall be in writing, and shall be dnly acknowledged before an officer authorized to take the acknowledgement of deeds; and the certificates of such acknowledgment shall be dnly indorsed upon the instrument before the delivery thereof to the assignment herein named.

Of course it will not be prestended that any interest would rest in the assignment in the does not subject to him; and as it is a familiar rule—indeed it may be said to crist as a maxim—that if an affirmative statute, which is introductive of a new law, direct a thing to be done in a certain manner, that thing shell not, even although there are no negative words, be done in any other manner (De liarris oh Statutes, 641); it follows that there cannot under this law be a valid delivery of an assignment for the benefit of creditors until the prerequisities of the Statute have been complied with. These prerequisities of the Statute have been complied with. These prerequisities of the Statute have been complied with. These prerequisities of the Statute have been complied with. These prerequisities of the Statute have been complied with. These prerequisities of the Statute have been complied with. These prerequisities of the Statute have been complied with. These prerequisities of the Statute which the statute requires and must therefore, be deemed essential, and until complied with, the histrument is not in somition to be delivered. (Greenleaf, jr., see, 394.)

But it is said that the object of the law in requiring the assignment to be acknowledged was only to put it in a coadition to be acknowledged was only to put it in a coadition to be acknowledged was only to put it in a coadition to be acknowledged was only to put it in a coadition to be acknowledged was only to put it in a coadition to be actually and the compliance with his dominions.

That assistance has been afforded by a body of Frenchtroops, who have been sent to Syria as representing the Allied Powers. The Sultan has also placed a considerable military force in Syria under the direction of an able officer, and I trust that tranquillity will be reestablished in that province, and that the objects of the Convention will have been fully attained. I announced to you also at the close of the last seasion of Parliament that the pacific overtures which my Envoyin China had made to the Imperial Government at Pekin having led to no satisfactory result, my naval and military forces, and those of my ally the Emperor of the French, were to advance toward the Northern Province of China for the purpose of supporting the just demands of the Allied Powers, and that the Eurl of Elgin had been sent to China as special Embassador to treat with the Chinese Government.

I am glad to inform you that the operations of the allied forces have been attended with complete success. After the capture of the forts at the mouth of the Peho, and several engagements with the Chinese army, the allied forces became masters of the Imperial City of Pekin, and the Earl of Elgin and Baron Gros, the Embassadors of the French, were enabled to obtain an henorable and satisfactory settlement of all the matters in dispote. Throughout the operations, and the negotiations which followed them, the commanders and embassadors of the Allied Powers acted with the most friendly concert. Papers on this subject will be ladd before you. The state of my Judian territories is That mesistance has been afforded by a body of

An insurrection of a portion of the natives of New-Zealand has interrupted the peace of a part of that Colony, but I hope that the measures which have been taken will speedily suppress these disturbances and enable my Government to concert such arrangements as may prevent their recurrence.

Serious differences have arrisen among the States of the North American Union. It is impossible for me to look without great concern upon any events which can affect the happiness and welfare of a people purely allied to my subjects by descent, and closely connected with them by the most inticate and friendly relations. My heartfelt wish is, that these difficulties may be susceptible of satisfactory adjustment. The interest which I take in the well-being of the people of the United States cannot but be increased by the kind and cordial reception given by them to the Prince of Wales during his recent visit to the Continent of America. I am glad to take this opportunity of expressing my warm appreciation of the loyalty and attachment to my person and throne manifested by my Cansdian and other North American subjects on the occasion of the residence of the Prince of Wales among them.

I confidently commit the great interests of my Empire to your wisdom and care, and fervently pray that the bleesing of the Almighty may attend your councils, and may guide your deliberations to the attainment of the object of my constant solicitude—the welfare and happiect of my constant solicitude—the welfare and happiofficer authorized to take the acknowledgment of deeds, and the certificate of which acknowledgment must be indersed upon the paper.

2. The term "acknowledgment" has a well knownlegal signification. It is the act by which a party who has executed an instrument declares or acknowledges it before a competent officer to be his act and deed. (Burill's Law Dictionary. 3 R. S. (5 ed.) 46. Sec. 4. 35 Sec. 35.)

Proving the execution by a subscribing witness is so totally different from an acknowledgment by a party (3 R. S., 5 ed. 55, Sec. 36) that it cannot be presumed the Legislature med the latter expression without intending it to be understood in its plain and obvious sense.

3. An instrument duly executed and proven by a subscribing witness, will be presumed to have been delivered on the day of its date unless the contrary is shown; and the burden of proof is on the party alleging the delivery on another day. (Elsey vs. Metail, 3 Denio, 32. Greenleaf, jr. sec. 27). The object of the statute may have been to do away in some degree with this presumption, or at least to prevent any doubt arising as to whan the assignment was actually executed acknowledged and delivered, and to fix a time which would be apparent from an imapedication of the instrument when it took effect.

Entertaining these views, it seems unnecessary to pass upon the other questions which were argued before me. I deemed it proper to add however, that in my opinion the complaint is preyent application should be refused.

Motion decided with $10 costs.

Before Judge Brady.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS—PRB. 12.—Before Recorder Inversar.

Thos. Jones made the same plea, and received the same sent-ence, having passed five-dellar bills on the Amsterdam Bank of New-York, upon James Weish, cysterman at Futen Market.

Michael Coburn and James Calishan, two burgiars, pleaded mility of attempts at housebreaking in the third degree, and the former was sent to the Penitentiary for skry days, while the latter, who was leader, was sent up for a year. They were after some hams, beef and pork, in the shop of Neison Flate, in Seventh avenue, but were watched and finally arrested by an officer named Bloomer, attached to the Twentiath Fracinct Police.

John Wilson was tried and convioted of forgery is the second degree, in passing & 50 bills on the Bank of Amsterdam on Rebecca Rutake of No. 57 Division street. Wm. Robinson was tried and found guilty of passing counterfeits on the Worccater Bank. Both prisoners ware remanded, but will probably receive sentence of five years at Big Bing, the being the smallest sentence the law admits of.

George Miller was sent to the Penitentiary for three months, and Thomas Killaily for six menths, for larceay, on an indictinent to which both of them pleaded guilty.

Henry Miles was sent to Sing Sing for two years for picking pockets. Adjourned.
